Filled with fun, easy, and imaginative recipes, FoodFest 365! is a must for any cook’s library. Strap on your rollerblades and race—don’t walk—to get your copy. I know I am!”

—Jacques Torres, M.O.F. (Meillure Ouvrier de France);
Chocolate Executive Officer, Jacques Torres Chocolate, New York

“Food should be fun! To make food fun every day you need a secret weapon and FoodFest 365! is it. Yvan the ‘chefologist’ gives us ideas, twists, fun stories, chef tips, pictures, and recipes so awesome you want to lick ‘em off the pages! Explore, experiment, and make food fun and delicious with Yvan as your guide.”

—Keegan Gerhard, Chef/Owner, D Bar Desserts;
Host, Food Network Challenge

“I have had the pleasure of watching (and judging) Yvan when he competed on the Food Network show Chopped and it was such a pleasure watching this chef demonstrate his passion and creativity in such a difficult setting! Yvan proved not only his skills as a cook, but showed that a true artist lives inside him, and manifests itself in his playful, whimsical, and ‘outside-the-box’ dishes. I have no doubt Yvan [and his company iFood Studio] is going to go a long way and reinvent many, many dishes in the process, and that FoodFest 365! is just the first look at what this talented chef can do. Kudos!”

—Chris Santos, Executive Chef/Partner, The Stanton Social;
Judge on Chopped

“FoodFest 365! is an amazing book chock full of fun and playful recipes and ideas. I love how Yvan really captures the essence of spirited youth. FoodFest 365! is sure to bring the family together both in the kitchen and at the table.”

—Johnny Iuzzini, Executive Pastry Chef, Jean Georges Restaurant;
Author of Dessert FourPlay: Sweet Quartets from a Four-Star Pastry Chef

Praise for FoodFest 365!

“Beautiful, happy recipes, a masterpiece from Yvan! Love the Little Devils and the juicy burger. A must in your kitchen!”

—Cyril Renaud, Chef/Owner, Bar Breton

“FoodFest 365! is easy to follow, caring, and happy, just like Yvan, who’s always on your side!”

—Akiko Katayama, Food Writer; Judge on Iron Chef America

“[Mr. Lemoine’s] desserts . . . verge on spectacular.”

—New York Times

“Yvan Lemoine is one of the most talented chefs in the country. His fanciful couplings of flavor and texture put him in a league of his own.”

—Carmen Marc Valvo, Fashion Designer

“It’s refreshing to find a cookbook that really has so much fun with food and invites the entire family to participate and enjoy the process of cooking and eating together. Yvan’s simple and delicious recipes will teach you proper technique and have you looking forward to holidays you’ve never before heard of (like Jelly-Filled Doughnut Day) for years to come. It’s a book that will have you smiling from the beginning of the recipe until the very last bite.”

—Andrea Strong, Writer and Founder of the Popular Food Blog The Strong Buzz

“Yvan is a talent that is rarely seen. He creates masterpieces that satisfy not only the palate but the eye as well. He puts heart and soul into his work, and as you can see from this book, it shows. I commend him to the fullest extent, and always look forward to experiencing his future endeavors.”

—Jonathan Pogash, NYC Beverage Consultant, www.thecocktailguru.com;
President NY Chapter, United States Bartenders Guild

Praise for FoodFest 365!

“We all know about the big food holidays like Thanksgiving, Easter, Passover, Chanukah, Christmas, and July 4th, but this book gives us a valid excuse to celebrate food each and every day. Yvan’s enthusiasm for food comes through loud and clear in this energetic book, and his passion for enjoying food is only matched by his skill in preparing it. He has put the fun back in our mouths by celebrating the things he—and we—love to eat. Each recipe is a cooking history lesson and a reassurance of kitchen success for seasoned chefs and home cooks who haven’t been to cooking school, but can handily prepare the foods they love to eat and try some new ones, too. As an added bonus, this book offers a perfect explanation for when you’re indulging. Need to explain to your personal trainer why you had salted caramel flan for breakfast? Once he knows that it’s National Caramel Day, he’ll simply have to forgive you. Of course he may make you drop and give him twenty, but it’s well worth it if you followed Yvan’s delicious recipe.”

—Francine Cohen, Editor-in-Chief,
Inside F&B (www.insidefandb.com)

“This book is exactly what you need for inspiration every day of the year. It’s fun, fab, and fascinating.”

—Gary Regan, ArdentSpirits.com

“I had the pleasure of preparing food and drinks with Yvan in my studio. The recipes were not only easy enough to follow for a beginner cook such as myself, but they tasted delicious and looked amazing.”

—Diana Falzone, TV Personality and Host of Cosmolicious Radio

“I have known Yvan since his high school days when he showed signs of independence, imagination, and creativity. His talents are many and his accomplishments to date are truly amazing. His first book (for I believe there will be many more) is filled with recipes that show his joy for life, knowledge of food, and his desire to have fun in the kitchen. Enjoy!”

—Richard Grausman, President/Founder, C-CAP
(Careers through Culinary Arts Program)

Praise for FoodFest 365!

“Yvan is a genius. Nothing more, nothing less. His recipes are simple and full of his voice. Reassuring, playful, encouraging and inventive—all at once. Buy this book if you want each day to be a festival celebrating food, family, life, and love. These are recipes that will give you reason to be at the table sharing with loved ones without fuss and with much aplomb.”

—Suvir Saran, Chef/Owner, American Masala and Devi;
Author of American Masala and Indian Home Cooking

“Every day for me IS a food fest so the fact that Yvan D. Lemoine created this cookbook titled FoodFest 365! pretty much makes him my soul mate. I mean, National Jelly-Filled Doughnut Day? I was already observing that high holy day on my own, and now, thanks to Yvan’s recipe for PB&J Doughnuts, his gourmet guidance gathers my fellow food followers as one. His foodie words of wisdom serve as a pied piper of sorts . . . and make me want to eat pie.”

—Allison Hagendorf, TV Personality; Food Writer and Enthusiast

“‘Y’ is an energetic presence to the culinary world with his undying quest for new techniques, exotic ingredients, and anything fun!”

—Kevin Lasko, Executive Chef, Park Avenue Restaurant

“A true free spirit.”

I dedicate this book to my friend Michael Batterberry, the eternal flame.

With special thanks to my family: Mom, Dad, Beatriz,
Johnny, Bas, Jesse, and Grandma for your patience and love, and to my dog Lucas for eating everything I dropped on the floor while cooking.

I love you all.

Acknowledgments

As they say, “We all walk on the shoulders of giants who came before us.” That’s why I’d like to take a moment to thank the people who have helped me along the way. The ones who paid when I was broke and didn’t have any money to buy the food to test these recipes. The ones who helped me clean the kitchen after I dropped the flour all over the floor. The ones who help me wash the dishes, pots, and crusted stuck-to-the-pan cheese casseroles. The ones who helped me clean pasta sauce from the walls, wipe up spilled soup inside the fridge, and got rid of the burnt cookies. The ones who tasted all the stuff I made and told me whether it was any good or not. Everyone who has taken the time out and had the patience to teach me how to cook. I apologize to all who gained 20 pounds from tasting all the food—I promise, I’ll make it up to you. To Suvir, my good friend and guiding light, without you, this book would not have been possible. Diane, you rock. Wendy, my editor, I’m sorry for all the missing recipes, gram-ounce conversions, and ramblings you had to rifle through to produce this cookbook. My community of butchers, farmers, fishmongers, and supermarket staff. Thank you Cyril Renaud, my friend and mentor. Michael and Ariane Batterberry, my friends and guiding light, for always believing in me when sometimes I didn’t. Joe and Dhanny Palma for their love and nurture since I was a little irresponsible rugrat. Ifeta and Gigi for letting me shoot at Diwine. A big shout out to John of Brooklyn Bagel in Astoria and Martha’s Bakery. Thank you to Sarah and Ryan Koo for letting me use their babies and to Patricia Koo, the talented photographer of all these delicious food shots. To a special family of food websites: Eater, Chowhound, Serious Eats, Food Network, Dorie Greenspan, DavidLebovitz.com, Lynne Olver’s Foodtimeline.org, and finally to TheNibble.com because that’s where I got the idea for a food holiday cookbook. Thanks!

Introduction

This book is about our national foods holidays—delicious, frivolous, and daily food holidays. Because if there's something we all love celebrating, it's food! When you think about all the other holidays, how do you remember them? Christmas = ham. Thanksgiving = turkey, cranberry sauce, and stuffing. The Fourth of July = burgers and hot dogs, of course. I think all these holidays were created as an excuse to get together and eat! So why not cut out the middleman and go straight to the food? Well, my friends, in this book, we do just that. Inside, you'll find a celebration of festive food holidays, from simple to extravagant recipes for meals, snacks, cocktails, and desserts . . . the kind of recipes the whole family can do together. The recipes range from simple fudge to an elaborate Spanish paella, which might lead you to ask, "What's up with paella? That's not American." You're right. But when you think about it, what is American food? We are a nation of nations, a jumbled up mess of immigrants from all over the world, and our food reflects that. Consider our great "American" treasures—burgers, hot dogs, and even apple pie aren't technically native to the United States. We have immigrant-Americans to thank for bringing over an incredible array of culinary wonders that have become an integral part of our everyday menu. American food is nothing but a big mish-mosh of the world's greatest edible treasures, and that treasure is ours to gobble up. This book aims to remind you of what great American food is all about and to celebrate its delicious and colorful history. Eat well, my friends.

Cook's Note

Food holidays are as valid as Mother's Day, Valentine's Day, or Cinco de Mayo. They come about as the result of a group petitioning the government to commemorate a particular food on a particular day. The president then approves or denies them. From there, it's up to us to promote it and celebrate it!
